Functionalism

Functionalists view crime as an inevitable and necessary part of society. They argue that crime:

- Serves a social function by promoting social cohesion through shared outrage.
- Encourages social change by challenging outdated norms.
- Acts as a boundary-maintaining mechanism.

The workbook explains Durkheim's concept of anomie and how deviations from norms can signal social instability. It also discusses Merton's strain theory, which attributes crime to the disconnect between societal goals and the means available to achieve them.

Activities include examining gendered crime statistics and debating whether gender differences are due to biology or socialization.

Ethnicity and Crime

- Data often shows higher police recorded crime rates among certain ethnic minorities.
