Historical Context of the Black Baptist Women's Movement (1880-1920)

Post-Reconstruction America and Racial Dynamics

Following the end of Reconstruction in 1877, the South saw the imposition of Jim Crow laws that institutionalized racial segregation and disenfranchisement of African Americans. Black communities faced systematic discrimination, economic hardship, and violence, which intensified their sense of injustice and the need for collective action. Within this landscape, Black churches, particularly Baptist congregations, became vital spaces for community organization, spiritual upliftment, and resistance.

Role of the Black Church in Community Life

The Black Baptist church served as more than a religious institution; it was a hub for social, political, and educational activities. Church leaders often took on leadership roles in advocating for civil rights, literacy, and economic empowerment.
