According to Aztec mythology, their ancestors emerged from a mystical homeland called Aztlán, often depicted as a mysterious island or mountain in the northern deserts.

What makes their origins particularly strange is the way they intertwined myth with history:

- Prophetic Signs and Omens: The Aztecs believed that their migration and eventual founding of Tenochtitlán were guided by divine signs—most famously, the vision of an eagle perched on a cactus devouring a snake. This image is now immortalized on the Mexican flag, but its origins as a divine omen reflect a civilization deeply rooted in mystical symbolism.

- Challenging Historical Accounts: Modern scholars debate the historicity of these legends, with some suggesting the stories served political and religious purposes. Nevertheless, the myth persists, emphasizing a civilization that viewed reality through a lens of supernatural significance.

with their religious beliefs, aiming to appease gods and ensure cosmic balance.

Human Sacrifice: The Most Infamous Practice

While human sacrifice is the most notorious aspect of Aztec rituals, what is often overlooked is the sheer scale and the strange aspects surrounding it:

For example, warriors who died in battle or those sacrificed in rituals were believed to go to the sun or the eastern paradise, respectively. Interestingly, suicides, especially those involving self-sacrifice, were highly regarded.
