Nestled along the highways of Michigan, Enchanted Forest (not to be confused with other similarly named attractions elsewhere) is a prime example of a quirky roadside stop. Featuring life-sized fairy tale figures, whimsical sculptures, and hidden surprises, it has become a pilgrimage site for those seeking nostalgia and wonder. The forest was originally developed in the 1950s by local artist and entrepreneur, Harold "Hal" Jenkins, who envisioned a fantastical world that would enchant visitors of all ages.

Giant Metal Sculptures and the Art of Rust

Similarly, the "Giant Lobster" in the Upper Peninsula, although not native to the region, celebrates the state's maritime culture.

These sculptures often have fascinating backstories—many created by local artists who use scrap metal and recycled parts to craft their masterpieces. The "Rusty Relics" movement, as some enthusiasts call it, has led to a proliferation of roadside metal art, each with its own story and character.
